WINTER ALOHA FROM HAWAII TO GREET MAINLAND

A. P. Taylor, secretary of the Hawaii Promotion committee, has completed his fall letter to the tourist agencies of the mainland, bringing to their attention Hawaii as a real winter resort. He calls the message an "Aloha From Hawaii."

It is brought out in the message that Hawaii is the one safe place for tourists, and he points out that this is the year of "See America First" with the accent on Hawaii. His letter which will be distributed broadcast throughout the United States is as follows:

"Where on earth can a traveler go this fall and winter and feel safe?"

"Certainly not to Europe, Africa, Mexico, or even to South America with any feeling of security; not to Asia (for steamship sailings there and back are an uncertain quantity); not to any of the outlying possessions of warring powers."

"This will be a winter of 'See America First,' and the only safe, insular tourist resort in the world will be the Hawaiian Islands."

"Hawaii is a de facto territory of the United States, and travelers have just exactly the same privileges in going to Hawaii as they have to the Pacific coast or the Atlantic seaboard. Honolulu is now, and will be, one of the busiest ports not only in the entire Pacific ocean, but of the United States, for with its great military and naval garrisons; with Kilaeua Volcano always active and accessible to the very rim by motor (considered the greatest natural wonder in the world and now a part of the new Hawaiian national park); with the islands caressed by mild winds from the north; with sea bathing 'On the Beach at Waikiki' every day in the year; with de luxe steamships from San Francisco and Los Angeles, operating regularly and not interrupted by the war, the Hawaiian Islands will be the tourist mecca this winter—as usual."

"Therefore, when travelers are inquiring as to where they may go this winter in perfect safety, Hawaii 'The Paradise of the Pacific' will receive them with the hospitality which has made the islands famous. All railroads, steamship and tourist agencies have complete information as to how to reach the 'Malua of the Pacific.'"

JAPANESE WOMEN OF HILO PLANNING TO HELP BEAUTIFY CITY

(Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence.) HILO, Aug. 18.—That the Japanese women of Hilo have the welfare of this city at heart is shown by the expensive decoration that they intend to put in some part of the city, where it will show to the best advantage. This decoration is a marble lamp post of a beautiful design. The marble slabs have already arrived and are being kept at Moheau Park, until a definite location for the decoration has been decided upon.

Mrs. Machida, who is the president of the Japanese Women's organization of Hilo, is conferring with Mr. Bowman, of the board of health, to decide where the best point would be. The most likely place is either in Moheau Park or on Coconut Island.

After the cement foundation has been built and the electric connections put in, the total cost of the decorative lamp post will be a little over $300. The exact nature of the design has not been divulged but it can be depended upon that the Japanese ladies with the keen artistic sense that almost seems second nature to the Japanese, have planned a decoration of more than ordinary beauty, which will set a standard for all city improvements of a similar nature.

Pitiful Tale Is Unfolded To U.S. Official By Girl

Without Money, Unable to Get Work, She Seeks to Flee From Scarlet Path

Driven into a life of shame by hunger and inability to secure work, a 20-year-old American girl, a newcomer to Honolulu, has appealed to federal authorities for protection from suspicious landlords who, although knowing she is penniless, have forced her into the streets, not even being willing to give her accommodation until she can leave for the mainland on August 22.

The girl's case first came to the attention of the authorities when a federal officer visited a local rooming house in search of her, complaints having been entered regarding her actions. The official found her in a room in company with a soldier and ordered them both from the place, warning the girl and reminding her of the fate of local women of the demi-monde who reverted to commercialized vice after they had been warned by the court to quit.

A few nights later the girl went personally to the home of the federal official and there sobbed out the pitiful tale of how she was forced to enter such a life because of lack of money and inability to secure work. At least three rooming house landlords had refused her admittance for fear of being arrested, she said, they having heard the story of the officer finding her in a room with a soldier. She appealed for protection, and asked the official to help her get a place where she might live until the time comes for her to leave Hawaii. This the official consented to do.

According to the girl's story, she came here some months ago with a friend, both firm in the belief that they could secure good positions in Honolulu. The days and weeks went by; both failed to secure work, and their little store of money dwindled away. The friend finally gave up and chose the "easy way." Where she has gone the other girl does not know.

But the girl who is still in Honolulu struggled along as best she could and finally secured a position which paid her little, but which enabled her to live. About two weeks ago, her story goes, she was told by her employer that her services were no longer needed.

For a week she looked for work. What little money she had was soon spent. Then, a week ago, driven by necessity, she slipped over the brink and into the scarlet life. A few days later the federal official found her.

The only thing of value the girl possesses, she says, is a steamer ticket on a steamer leaving here August 22. She has treasured it carefully and now that she is in a position to leave will use it. Once on the mainland where she can get a position, she will "go straight," she told the official.

"What was the girl to do?" asks the official to whom she told her story. "She is a white woman and it is not easy for white women to get employment here unless they have some special training. Had she been a Japanese woman she could have gotten work on a plantation or in a home. This is not the only case of this kind I have heard of."

NO CESSATION IN Y. W. CLUB WORK DESPITE SUMMER

Despite the vacation period, the Y. W. C. A. has been unusually busy with work among the clubs in the city. The beach house facilities have naturally increased the interest in the club work, and with Miss Marjorie Capps as swimming instructor and head of the club work, much progress has been made.

The Manoa Club has kept up its activities during the summer, and picnics at the beach house and swimming parties have formed much of the activities during the past two months. The girls have kept up their drill work, and are expected to be ready to make a creditable showing in the next exhibition.

The Lei Mamo Club meets every Thursday afternoon, and this week the members of the club will journey to Moanalua gardens, where they will study the various botanical specimens and discuss the future plans for the upbuilding of the club. Miss Capps will accompany the party.

On Thursday evening the Kalia clubs will meet in a joint session, at which time the program will consist of singing, gymnasium work and preliminary training for basketball. The Kalia girls have taken a deep interest in the gymnasium work, and the residents of that section have learned to believe in athletics for the girls.

The Y. W. C. A. has a number of features to offer the various clubs, and with the beach club as a meeting place, many enjoyable parties are staged. The association did not realize at first the real value of the home at the beach, but although the majority of the clubs are not active during the summer, the interest is great, and when the fall program is started it is expected that the beach house will be crowded with swimming parties and evening affairs.

Since the announcement was made that there will be a big swimming meet for girls in October, the various members of the clubs have taken an interest in swimming for speed, and Miss Capps has a number of pupils who are expected to make a good showing in the coming meet. When the club work begins this fall it is expected that the various clubs will contest for honors in aquatics.

Desha To Claim Maori Princess For His Bride?

This Is Report Emanating From Hilo Where Young Hawaiian Is Well-known

(Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence.) HILO, August 18.—William Desha, son of George L. Desha, Sr., and who is well known in Hilo, is now located near Napier in New Zealand. He is on a big sheep ranch and likes the life very much. He writes regularly to his father and, in his recent letters has stated that earthquakes have been rather numerous in that part of the world. However, no letter has been received from him since the big shake that has been reported in the newspapers occurred.

On Wednesday last, Desha, Sr., received a wireless message from his son saying that Owner Donnelly of the big ranch on which he is staying, had died suddenly and that many changes may be made in the future in regard to the management of the sheep station.

Young Desha first met the Donnelly while traveling from Vancouver to Hawaii. He became such a favorite with the New Zealanders that they prevailed upon him to accompany them to the Antipodes. There is a hint of a romance in connection with the matter and the Hawaiian blood of the young man may be connected up with that of the Maori through a marriage with a Maori princess before very many moons have passed.

CENTRAL UNION TO HAVE NEW ENTRANCE SOON, SAYS REPORT

Central Union church will have a new entrance on Richards street, according to a report which is being circulated. It has been pointed out that the noise of the street cars and automobile horns on Beretania street has been such that the pastor has been handicapped in delivering his sermons.

With an increased traffic on Beretania street, which is expected to take place in the very near future, it is believed that it will be impossible to hold services with any degree of quietude. The plan as proposed by one of the members is to change the entrance to Richards street.

There has been some talk of purchasing a new organ for the church, and with this change in view, it is believed that general improvements will be made in the present edifice.

DESPONDENT WOMEN

Constantly recurring suffering gives women "the blues." Comparatively few women realize that despondency, together with headache, backache, and that "dragging-down" feeling indicate some derangement of the female organs, for which Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a remedy. It is said that this famous, old root and herb remedy has been the means of restoring more women to health and consequent happiness than any other remedy in the world. Don't wait until your life is wrecked by neglect and suffering. Give the Compound a trial.—Adv.

BEAUTY CHATS

By EDNA KENT FORBES

More About Yogi Breathing

A SERIES OF CHATS that appeared some time ago, devoted to Yogi methods of breathing, excited the interest of women readers for quite a time after the articles ceased to appear. Several wrote me, asking me to devote a few Chats to the spiritual side of the Yogi religion, and to explain the meaning of their philosophy. Three such letters are before me at the moment. The spiritual side of Yogiism is too deep to go into here, inasmuch as this space should be devoted simply to discussions of beauty culture and the simplest and sanest methods of acquiring good looks, and of keeping one's health and youth. Those interested in Yogiism will find the books on the subject fascinating reading, whether they accept the really very same teachings or not. The philosophy is simply a clean life for good health. For women, this means beauty as well.

Breathe beauty and vitality into your body with every breath you draw

The Yogi breathing exercises are wonderful. I am giving directions here for their Complete Breath, leaving out all discussion of its spiritual effect and using it only for the wonderful vitalizing qualities it gives. Sit, or stand, hands on hips. Inhale steadily, filling first the lowest part of the lungs, which puts a gentle pressure on the abdomen, then the middle part of the lungs, which pushes out the ribs, allowing more room for the chest to expand. Lastly, the upper part of the chest, which lifts this up, and with it some six or seven pairs of ribs. Retain the breath a few seconds, and exhale slowly. Relax, and repeat at least a half dozen times. The pouring of air into every cell of the chest

Questions and Answers

To Tittle B.—If you are troubled so much with hangnails about the fingers, don't cut the outside when manicuring, except to remove the loose bits at the tip end of the nail. Use a good cuticle remover on the nail itself, pushing the scurf skin back with an orange-wood stick. Rub cold cream into the nails each night. This also helps prevent those bothersome, little hangnails.

To Cora.—You should be glad you have red hair. It is not only the most beautiful sort, but is extremely fashionable just now. Wear a well when in strong sunlight, and rub the face with butter-milk. To help bleach the freckles.

Yes, the olive-green material you mention would make a stunning suit. I think a black satin dress for afternoon wear would be a good choice, black satin being very popular just now, besides, black will set off your hair wonderfully. For the two evening dresses—why not one of ecru or light shade of lavender, set off with deep purple, and for the other, a coral shade, or pink? Never wear ordinary colors with such a coloring as yours, always seek the unusual tint of some color.

MAUI ARRANGES BOOSTER DINNER

(Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence.) WAILUKU, Maui, Aug. 18.—A unique program is being prepared for the chamber of commerce booster dinner to be given at the Maui hotel next Tuesday evening. Just what the nature of this entertainment will be is still a secret, but there is a deal of preparation which indicates that there will be "plenty doing." Besides a good time, the object of the dinner is to get together on some plan for Maui's part in the civic convention, to be held in Honolulu in September.

Not the least interesting feature of the dinner is the fact that the chamber members are privileged, and expected to bring a lady or ladies with them. This is the committee's idea. If it doesn't prove a success the blame will be heaped on J. J. Walsh, D. H. Case and Worth Aiken, who are responsible. The menu is to be an all-Maui production.

ducts affair. Nothing, it is stated, that has not been grown or produced in this county will enter into the feast. Here is the card as prepared:

- Papaya Cocktail
- Soup
- Radishes and Fresh Onions (Kula)
- Fish
- Irish Potatoes (Walhee)
- Roast Pork (Iao)
- Baked Sweet Potatoes (Kapanui)
- Succotash (Homesteads)
- Pear Salad (Hana)
- Pumpkin Pie
- Tarts (Olanda)
- Roselles (Haleiwa)
- Coffee (Honolulu)
- Bananas
- Grapes
- Pineapples
- Guava Jelly (Maui)

It is expected that Raymond C. Brown, secretary of the Honolulu Chamber of Commerce, will be present for the particular purpose of talking civic convention.

NEW THOUGHT CLASSES BEING HELD TUESDAYS

The New Thought students of the Tuesday morning class are beginning a course of lessons under the direction of Mrs. Melville Moncrief, from Mrs. Gordon's book, "The Illumined Life." This study course is free and all interested in New Thought are invited to attend. Mrs. Moncrief will teach a system of "right memorizing" in connection with these lessons. Students may join at any time, as the class will be kept open and free private instruction given to all who require it to keep up with the class work. No home study will be necessary. The class meets every Tuesday morning at 10:30 o'clock in the hall at Beretania and Miller streets.

MAUI WOMEN SLACK IN FOOD CAMPAIGN

WAILUKU, Maui, Aug. 18.—Complaint is made that the Maui women do not take the food conservation campaign at all seriously.

Two weeks ago Postmaster Costa sent out 200 cards to women in this community, which when signed and returned would secure their registration under the federal food commission's banner, and pledging them to practice economy in the use of food products.

The time for the return of the cards ends tomorrow. Up to noon today but 40 of the 200 cards had been returned.

Glasses that fit the nose and the character of the face as well as the eyes are the only ones worth paying for.

Above all, the correction of the defaults in your eyesight will be responsible for better health and clearer thinking.

But for comfort and for looks, it is also important to get glasses that fit perfectly on the nose and that look well.
